Pianist Asaf Zohar To Perform On March 2nd

Asaf Zohar

Israeli pianist Asaf Zohar will perform in concert on Thursday, March 2, at 8 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium. An informal discussion and question and answer session with the pianist will be presented on Friday, March 3, at 1:30 p.m. at Wheelwright Auditorium. Both programs are free and open to the public.

Born in Israel, Asaf Zohar studied in the Givatayim Conservatory, the Rubin Academy of Music, and is currently a candidate for the Doctoral degree at Indiana University School of Music. Zohar studied music under well known instructors Hanna Shalgi, Professor Arie Vardi, and Professor Menahem Pressler. He has performed with all Israeli orchestras including the Israel Philharmonic Orchestra, directed by Maestro Zubin Mehta, and the Jerusalem Symphony, directed by Maestro Gari Bertini. Zohar has given public recitals and broadcasted for Israeli Radio and T.V.

Having been awarded the Clairmount and Gerar Behar Prizes in Israel, Zohar also received second place in the 1987 International Competition in memory of Robert Casadesus in Cleveland, Ohio.

Masterclass participation includes great musicians such as Arthur Rubinstein, Alfred Brendel, Christoph Eshenbach, Eugene Istomin, Leon Fleisher, and Claude Frank.

The concert program will include selections from music composed by Beethoven, Brahms, Chopin, Liszt, and Schubert.

For more information about either program, contact Philip Powell, ext. 2515.

Auditions Scheduled For "Who's Afraid Of Virginia Woolf?"

The Coastal Carolina Theater will hold auditions for "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?," Saturday, February 25, at 3 p.m. and Sunday, February 26, at 7 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium. Auditions are open to the public.

"Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?," a drama by Edward Albee, is set in a New England college town and reveals the turbulent roles of marriage executed by George and Martha, Nick and Honey.

The auditioning roles are for two men and two women. Perusal scripts are on review at Kimbel Library.

For more information, contact Jeff Nichols, ext. 2511.

A Salute To Education To Be Held February 27th

"A Salute to Education," will be held Monday, February 27 at 7 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium. The presentation is free and open to the public and will conclude this year's Black History Month series at the college.

Keynote speaker will be Dr. C. Tyrone Gilmore, principal of Carver School in Spartanburg. Gilmore is a member of the Masons, the Shriners, the Vice Grand Basileus, and a life member of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Inc. He was voted the Omega Man of the Year in 1973, and is a recipient of the J.E. Dickson Consistory 32nd Degree Masons' Leadership Award. His degrees are from Livingston College, Converse College, and USC Columbia.

During the program, awards will be presented to selected, retired local educators. Recipients include: Bernice M. Johnson, Conway; Syble Scott, Bucksport; Maudest Squires, Georgetown; and Ella Ballen, Conway.

Moderator of the program will be Dr. Jessie Brown, assistant professor of education at Coastal. Music will be provided by the Coastal Gospel Choir and concluding remarks will be delivered by Coastal Chancellor Ron Eaglin.

A reception will follow the event, held on the second floor balcony of Wheelwright Auditorium.

For more information, contact George Williams Sr., ext. 2304.

Admissions Office To Sponsor "Straight Talks" Program Series

During February and March the Office of Admission will sponsor "Straight Talks," a series of informational programs for prospective students and their parents. The programs, which are free and open to the public, will be held on the following dates:

Straight Talk About Financial Aid
Monday, February 27
7 p.m. - Student Center, room 205

Learn about various state and federal grants, work-study employment, college loans, and other forms of assistance that are available to help you pay for your college education. Representatives from the Financial Aid Office, and the Office of Admission will explain the criteria for each form of assistance and the procedures for applying for financial aid.

Straight Talk About Undergraduate Admissions
Monday, March 20
7 p.m. - Student Center, room 205

If you plan to apply to Coastal, this program will provide step-by-step procedures, information about admission requirements, and deadline dates. College administrators and counselors also will explain options for those who do not meet admission criteria, including Guided Studies, Special Summer Admissions Program, and summer courses. If you have been accepted, but need more information about your admission category, this session will be helpful.

Straight Talk About Adult Enrollment
Wednesday, March 29
7 p.m. - Fine Arts Little Theater

Adults who are thinking about starting or returning to college will find this session helpful. Representatives from the Office of Admission and the Continuing and Graduate Education Department will provide information about entrance requirements for undergraduate and graduate programs; continuing education seminars, workshops, and community education courses; the Third Quarter program for retirement-age people; and advice about what to expect when returning to the classroom after a number of years. Older students who are attending Coastal will discuss their personal experiences of returning to school.

For more information about the Straight Talks series, contact the Office of Admission, ext., 2026. Registration is not required; however, because of space limitations, it would be helpful to know if you plan to attend.

"Girl Crazy" Opens At Wheelwright February 24th

(center) Lisa Bonner
(right) Wayne Nobles

"Girl Crazy," a George and Ira Gershwin musical that originated in the 1930s as a Broadway play, will be presented by the Coastal Carolina Theater on Friday, February 24 at 8 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium, with additional performances on Saturday, February 25 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, February 26 at 2:30 p.m.

Playing the lead role of Frisco Kate, a down and out nightclub singer, is Lisa Bonner, of Myrtle Beach, who plans on pursuing a theatrical career in New York. In the play, Kate travels with her Hungarian ex-husband Zoli, played by Patrick Coyle, minister of music at a local church on the Grand Strand.

While pursuing a comeback in her career, Kate decides that she would like to rekindle an old romance with cowboy and ex-TV star of "Cowpoke," Johnny Churchill, played by Matt Morris, a sophomore at Coastal. But Churchill's heart belongs to a sweet little country cowgirl, Molly Moorehead, played by sophomore Coastal student Nora Gail Reece.

A sub-plot of the play is made up of gamblers trying to take over the town of Custerville, with Churchill, who decides to to run for sheriff, trying to run them out of town.

Other major cast members include cowboy Sam Mason, played by Coastal graduate Wayne Nobles; Snake Eyes, played by Coastal freshman Vaughn Cox; and Doc Parkerhurst played by Coastal sophomore James Bryan.

Carolyn Cox, associate professor of music at Coastal is musical director, and Linda Hollandsworth, instructor of English and speech, is stage director. Jeff Nichols, visiting professor of theater and speech at Coastal is scenic director.

Stage manager is Mark Kaufmann, Coastal student; choreographer is Lisa Kirby; Tim Hicks is in charge of lighting; and Kristie Knight is assistant stage manager.

Tickets are $7, ($4 students) and may be purchased at the door or in advance through the Wheelwright box office at ext. 2502.

Dr. Walter Van Hamme To Lecture At Coastal

Dr. Walter Van Hamme, associate professor of astronomy and physics from Florida International University in Miami, Florida will present a lecture at Coastal on Friday, February 24, at 11:30 a.m. in SC-205.

His lecture on cosmic origins is entitled "Global Catastrophes In Earth History."

The program is free and open to the public.

For more information, contact Dr. Ballou Skinner, ext. 2226.

Will Shaw, Jr. Has A Way Without Words

By Karl "The Beatles" Krizka
Staff Reporter

Will Shaw, Jr.

Gestures, not words, describe the character of Will Shaw, Jr. This is because he often plays the role of a mime. Will has contributed his efforts to Coastal's campus by appearing in plays and performing as a mime.

Launching his career 11 years ago as a human mannequin in the shopping malls of Columbia, S.C., Will has compiled an impressive history as an actor. He has previously worked with Westwind Entertainment at Hilton Head Island, toured Virginia, Maryland, and Washington D.C. in the production I'm Not Rapport, and appeared in Coastal's play Bell, Book and Candle. Currently he is working with the Patchwork Players and Southeastern Players.

Having just exhibited his mime character confronting the issue of drug abuse, Will comments on his favorite role, "I feel as though I'm here to leave a message."

"Creativity plays an important part of the mime and in my life."

His major, to no one's surprise, is theatre. He has the ability to model, produce, or direct aside from acting. Will's success as a working actor is the result of his enthusiasm and love of theatre.

Will enjoys being a roving mime in which he is able to freely walk around and entertain his audience. He also indulges in putting on a show for birthday parties or conventions. "The mime's goal is to bring joy," he says heartfully.

He will be enrolled in an acting school this summer in Ann Arbor, Michigan, which is run by the famous mime Marcel Marceau. If you would like to contact Will Shaw Jr. for theatrical entertainment, phone 347-2478 or 546-8315.

Rachelle Drakeford Competes For Truman Scholarship

The Truman Foundation of Washington, D.C., recently selected Coastal sophomore Rachelle Drakeford as a semi-finalist for a Truman Scholarship Award.

The Truman Foundation, founded in honor of the late President Harry S Truman, awards scholarships on the basis of merit to students who will pursue a career in public service.

Rachelle was one of just five semi-finalists selected from the Southeast region to compete for the scholarship grants. On January 26, 1989, the Southeast regional representatives of the Truman Foundation invited Rachelle for the semi-finalist interview. This interview is the final step in the competitive process for winning the scholarship.

The Truman scholarships are among the most lucrative and prestigious scholarship grants in the country. The scholarship covers tuition and book expenses, along with providing a stipend for the final two years of undergraduate study and for the first two years of graduate study.

Rachelle, a graduate of Andrew Jackson High School in Kershaw, South Carolina, is an outstanding underclassman at Coastal. Involved in several campus organizations, she is the Assistant Coordinator of the Campus Union Programming Board, a member of the Afro-American Society Club, a Student Government Association representative, as well as being a member of the South Carolina Student Legislature, the Phi Alpha Delta pre-law fraternity, and the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc. In addition, Rachelle has also managed to remain on the Dean's List her first three semesters.

Asked about her many activities, Rachelle replied, "I like to keep busy in organizations on campus. It allows me to meet fascinating people and helps learn how to deal with various personalities that we come in contact with in our everyday lives."

Rachelle will pursue graduate study either in the field of law or political science. She intends to embark on a career in the area of civil rights.

Rolling In The Dough

By Mike Neviaser
Staff Writer

It is the dream of every college student to graduate and open up a business for themselves. The wait is over, however, for Coastal students Karl Hjalmarrson and Gunnar Gunnarson.

It all started two years ago while Karl and Gunnar were enrolled in Ed Cerny's retailing class. Using this opportunity provided through school and the idea based on the popular Domino's Pizza, they opened Jon Bakan Pizza in Iceland.

Oddly enough, this "long road to success" seemed quite a short one to them. During last year's spring break, Gunnar borrowed $50,000 from an Icelandic bank.

By the summer, the restaurant was well on its way and, according to Karl, "is presently doing quite well."

In America, one would think twice before embarking in such a competitive business. In Iceland, however, only one pizza delivery place existed, so they really didn't fear being put out of business.

For Karl and Gunnar, the buck doesn't stop there. They soon plan on expanding their business throughout their country, and even making an animated commercial using their "cartoon chef" logo. It just goes to show that these guys made more dough out of pizza than just the crust we feed to the dog.

15 Underrated Rock Albums/Nick Phillips

1. Black Sabbath: "Heaven and Hell"

The first album that Sabbath recorded without original frontman Ozzy Osbourne - Tony Iommi's guitar work here is far superior to that on any other Sabbath effort. If their fans could have quit yelling "Ozzy! OZZY!" long enough to listen to this LP with an open mind, it may have ended up being recognized as a Heavy Metal classic. I'm going to make a very bold statement about "Heaven and Hell"—if I had to pick one LP as being the greatest Heavy Metal recording of all time, this would be it. Yes, it is that great.

2. A Flock of Seagulls: "The Story of a Young Heart"

This is an ambitious concept album which tells the story of a young man who comes to terms with a past relationship to once again take a chance at love, only to get hurt and end up committing suicide. Guitarist Paul Reynolds and keyboardist Mike Score do such a great job of creating a mood and evoking emotion with their instrumentation that you can almost tell exactly what each song is about before the vocals begin. Whether you want to dance, rock hard, mellow-out, sing-a-long to an infectious melody or just get sentimental, this LP has something for you.

3. Generation X: "Generation X"

Fronted by current trendy Top 40 rocker Billy Idol, Generation X gave this LP everything that makes a great punk album - simple but fiery guitar playing, an infectious 50's-60's feel, and, most importantly, honesty. This music has the furious rock and roll energy missing from a lot of Billy Idol's solo efforts. Generation X is a must have for any punk fan.

4. The Romantics: "Strictly

Personal"

The Romantics were an underground sensation who lost their cult following when they sold out. Like the music on Generation X's debut album, this LP album features a 50's-60's feel and an aggressive guitar. But the playing here is somewhat tighter and has more of a catchy, sing-a-long feel.

5. The Plasmatics: "Beyond the Valley of 1984"

Boy, was this band ahead of its time! Wendy O. Williams and Co. offered tight punk/thrash metal similar to that heard on the most recent efforts by Suicidal Tendencies and the Dirty Rotten Imbeciles. The biggest success the Plasmatics ever enjoyed was as the opening act on a portion of Kiss' 82-83 tour; but if they were together today, they might be a smash.

6. Rick Springfield: "Rock of Life"

Contrary to popular belief, being an actor doesn't necessarily mean not having any musical talent. The material here is very diversified and innovative, and it features very meaningful lyrics when compared to most of today's music. "Rock of Life" shows that Springfield is not content to put ten remakes of "Jessie's Girl" on every LP.

7. Queensryche: "Operation Mindcrime"

Released this past spring, the record company has finally decided to get behind this album and promote it. Hit Parader's Andy Secher called "Operation Mindcrime" Queensryche's equivalent to Pink Floyd's "The Wall." This concept album is an example of progressive metal at its very best. This album is incredible.

8. Joan Jett and the Blackhearts: "Album"

Joan Jett and the Black-hearts have been called one of the world's purest rock and roll bands, and "Album" is excellent proof of that. This LP sold less than one-third the total of its predecessor, "I Love Rock and Roll," but it's twice as good. It features a hard rocking remake of Sly and the Family Stone's "Everyday People."

9. Hanoi Rocks: "Oriental Beat"

Take a look at bands like Poisen and Faster Pussycat, and you'll see that Hanoi Rocks were far ahead of their time. This good, tight, powerful rock and roll with plenty of melody and emotion. If these guys were around today, they would be considered the Gods of glam-rock.

10. Kiss: "Music From the Elder"

In addition to the fact that it wasn't supported by a concert tour, this album was a commercial disappointment because it was a blatant departure from Kiss' patented party hard rock. "Elder" is a concept album that deals with topics like fear, good and evil, religious archetypes, and self-actualization. The music here is very diversified, progressive hard rock which should appeal to anyone who like Yes, Led Zeppelin, or Styx.

11. Greg Kihn Band: "Next of Kihn"

The music here is just good, tight, down-to-earth, fun, American rock and roll. You won't like this LP if you just want to hear "Jeopardy" over and over again. "Next of Kihn" is a great example of the San Francisco Rock and Roll sound.

12. Girlschool: "Screaming Blue Murder"

This band never gained much more than a strong cult following, probably because people don't seem to think that women can rock hard. "Screaming Blue Murder" is Motorhead meets Kiss meets ZZ Top with Girlschool's own special fire and energy. This music kicks ass!

13. Motley Crue: "Too Fast for Love"

Unlike some of the restrained, overly-polished garbage on their "Girls, Girls, Girls" and "Theatre of Pain" LP's, the music here is an honest, spontaneous burst of rock energy. Originally recorded on the band's independent "Leather Records" label, this is vintage Crue back in their fire-and-brimstone shock rock days. Creem Magazine called "Too Fast" one of the best metal LP's of the 80's.

14. Twisted Sister: "You Can't Stop Rock and Roll"

This LP came out a year before the Sister hit it big via MTV. "You Can't Stop Rock and Roll" has an obvious Judas Priest influence and is easily their best effort. This cult classic by Dee Snider and Co. was also called one of the 80's best metal albums by Creem Magazine.

15. Any album by the Ramones

Forget what anybody says about the Sex Pistols or Iggy Pop—these guys invented punk rock. Back in 1976, the Ramones performed in London, England, in front of an audience which featured the future members of the bands at the heart of England's punk movement (Generation X, The Sex Pistols, The Clash, The Damned). Still going strong, these New York rockers have yet to release anything that resembles a sell-out. These guys play completely honest, hard driving rock and roll with a 50's-60's rhythm and bone-crushing guitar chords. Suggested Ramone's LP's—"Road to Ruin," "End of the Century," "Animal Boy," and "Ramones Mania."

Walt Disney World To Be On Campus March 15

By Wendy McDonald
Staff Reporter

On Wednesday, March 15, Coastal Carolina College is pleased to announce the arrival of representatives of Walt Disney World who will be interviewing students for each of the summer and fall '89 internships. The program will be located in room 205 at the Student Center and begins at 9:00 am. This program starts out with an hour introduction that is mandatory to attend and any questions will be answered at this time. Come early and meet with the representatives personally. Do dress for success. This is an enormous opportunity, and gaining employment with the most attractive and prestigious resort is immeasurable.

Business, Physical Education, and Communication majors are welcomed. Sophomore students with a 2.75 GPR meet requirements for participation and graduates will also be interviewed for permanent entry level positions at this time.

Resorts, Merchandising, and Attractions are the three areas students will have the opportunity to work in while they are at WDW.

Ten three hour seminars are offered by WDW as part of their college program. The subjects studied in these courses are:

Disney University
Employee Relations
Guest Relations
Merchandising
Marketing
Finance
Entertainment
Food and Beverage
Resorts
Career Planning

Part of the work experience in WDW will be the attendance for all ten seminars by every internship student.

Selected students for WDW internships are offered six hours of credit in Business Administration 497 here at Coastal. A fifteen page paper is required for this course. There are three hours of independent study 399 that can be acquired through Tom Jones. The University of Central Florida in Orlando proposes additional hours that may be earned. Objectives of part-time to full-time college status then will be maintained while working at WDW.

There is a noted emphasis on individuals who hold a Water Safety Instructor certification and have uncorrected 20/40 vision in order to work in the new fifty acre water park, Typhoon Lagoon. Internships are now made available in WDW movie studio.

Students will be paid $4.65 an hour. Housing is provided for $50.00 a week.

Contact Ed Cerny in room 210-D of Kearns Hall for an application. His telephone extension is 2651.

GOOD LUCK TO ALL!

Headed For Disaster

A Book Review
By Paul Hurley

The bizarre life of Jim Morrison, an incredible poet and lyricist, is characterized in No One Gets Out of Here Alive. As a result of his eccentric life, Jim Morrison had a controversial death.

Authors Jerry Hopkins and Danny Sugarman expose Morrison's life in detail. When Jim was a young boy, for example, he was constantly relocating because his father was an admiral in the Navy. Circumstances like this prevented him from making any real close friends. Morrison also became involved with reading and writing as a pastime. He had an astonishing collection of books including works by Nietzsche, Sophocles and Shakespeare. He also had a large collection of poetry which he had written himself. This poetry was excellent, according to the authors, even that which was written at an early age. Morrison's lifelong ambition was to become a poet. Later on in life, when he developed his poetry into songs, much of his poetry reflected upon his outlandish life.

During Morrison's college years, he began to use drugs and alcohol. At this point, drugs began to have an impact on him. Also when he was in college, he met Ray Manzerrick who convinced him to form a band. The band they formed was known as The Doors, and Morrison was to be the lead singer and lyricist.

At this point, Morrison was doing lots of strange things. For instance, he disappeared for a couple of days and never told anybody where he went. He was constantly drinking and getting into trouble with the police. The Doors soon became a number one act. On stage Morrison shouted obscenities at the crowd, exposed himself, and by doing these weird acts, excited the crowds.

Morrison had become one of the most popular figures in rock and roll by 1969, perhaps too popular for his liking. He became very antagonistic towards his stardom, the authors report. Consequently, he felt as if he were being cheated as a poet and labeled as a mindless rock star who did "weird things on stage." By this time, Morrison had written and published two books; he did not want his work to be associated with his rock star image.

On vacation in Europe in 1971, Morrison was pronounced dead. There are many suspicions and conflicting reports surrounding his death. First of all, his death was not released to the public for several days. Secondly, his casket was never opened, and only one person viewed the corpse. Nevertheless, he was proclaimed dead due to a heart attack, and at the young age of 29. He had talked about retreating to Africa and leaving the whole music scene just like one of his favorite poets, Moliere. These circumstances, according to Hopkins and Sugarman, have led many people to believe that his death was a hoax. On the other hand, Morrison drank entirely too much, and this could have attributed to his death.

There have been many books written about Jim Morrison, but No One Gets Out of Here Alive is perhaps the best. The book describes in detail an account of his life and death. The authors knew him well, the book is accurate and has merit.

Counseling Center Helps Students Cope With Stress

By Dr. Joe Mazurkiewicz
Director, Counseling Services

College is a time for personal growth and development. It is also a time of adjustment and change. The decisions you make in the next few days, weeks, months and years will affect your life now, as well as in the future.

As we are all aware, decision making and change can also bring about feelings of self-doubt and conflict. The feelings that we experience as we go through changes are varied and often difficult to cope with on our own. As we journey through early adulthood, many normal developmental concerns may arise. If the stressors you experience are getting in the way of reaching your goals, then come to the Counseling Center where you can explore your concerns in a relaxed and confidential atmosphere.

The following is a list of typical concerns that college students report as being their most common ones:

- Persistent thoughts that they do not belong in college
- A conviction that they are not prepared for, or entitled to college
- Feelings of loneliness and

- isolation
- A lack of career goals and objectives
- A generalized feeling of inferiority
- Feeling unrespected and undervalued
- A dislike for people in the college
- Negative feelings of being different
- A fear of tests, term papers or evaluations
- Feel unintelligent
- Too much need for recreational activities such as partying
- Feeling they don't belong with the people around them
- Not knowing how to respond to others
- Fear of appearing stupid or making mistakes
- A conviction that some people are better than others
- A conviction that they cannot control what happens to them

If we can assist you with these or other concerns, please let us know. Appointments can be made in the Student Center, Room 206, or by calling Ext. 2305.

Measles Outbreak Not A Concern At Coastal

By Kay Kierspe, R. N.
Health Information and Medical Referral

North Carolina colleges' combat against the measles outbreak is sending hundreds of people to county health departments for immunizations. Fortunately, USC-Coastal Carolina College students should not fear a measles epidemic on this campus. Prior to registration, each student is required to return immunization records from their doctor. Therefore, if immunization records are current and complete, this should alleviate any apprehension.

Doctors, DHEC and medical resources advised Coastal to require immunization records since 1985 to prevent an event such as the North Carolina measles outbreak.

Research indicated that vaccines dated from the mid 1950's to the late 1960's were not effective. According to Bill Nichols, Assistant Coordinator of the Immunization Program in the Division of Health Services of North Carolina, "Officials are trying to limit immunizations to the most susceptible populations - those 15 months to 32 years old, and those who were immunized prior to 15 months of age or before 1968."

If you have any questions or concerns about your immunization records, or any other health matter, please contact me in Room 206-I, Student Center, or call Student Health Services, Ext. 2329.

Fellowship of Christian Athletes Active on Campus

By Kent Lamb

FCA was founded in 1954. Its purpose is to present to athletes and coaches, and all whom they influence (you, the student body), the challenge and adventure of receiving Jesus Christ as Savior and Lord, serving him in their relationships and in the fellowship of the church.

First we want to express our thanks to everyone who came out to eat with us on January 31. The Chicken Bog Dorm Appreciation Dinner was a huge success, with 225 plates served. The dinner was for students who live on campus. We (FCA) wanted to express our love and to meet students of the residence halls on an informed basis. We again thank you for coming, and thanks also to the groups that supported us.

Our February 14, Valentine's Day, FCA reached out again, as we visited Conway Nursing Home to share with some of the nicest Valentines in the area that you could ever meet. We sang, told stories, shared testimonies and just gave a special Valentine to some new friends.

For FCA to stay on the move we are having two big fundraisers this month. On February 25, we are sponsoring a car wash at "The Carwash" on 23rd Ave. South Kings Hwy., in Myrtle Beach. The cost is $5.50 for outside wash; $7.00 for inside/outside wash; $9.00 for inside/outside wash with wax; and $12.00 for inside/outside wash, wax, and whitewall/vinyl top treatment. FCA receives a portion of each car washed. Then on February 28th, we will have a Basketball-a-thon which will be a battle of the sexes. So find an FCA member and sponsor them in this activity. Come out and watch, have fun and Fellowship with us. The guys will raise more money than the girls (I hope).

The funds raised from the above activities will be used to support our next two activities. On March 13th, we are having an Athlete Appreciation Dinner for all of the personnel involved with sports here at Coastal. The dinner will be a chance to meet the athletes and coaches and to express our appreciation for their hard work in representing Coastal at home and abroad.

The next activity will be the 1st Annual FCA Day. We are inviting four to five hundred high school FCA'ers to Coastal for a day packed with fun and worship. The other major colleges in the state have had much success with this. We hope to share Christ with everyone we come in contact with.

Fellowship of Christian Athletes is fast becoming one of the most active clubs on campus. We have a lot of fun and have much to offer students such as spiritual growth, friendships and many ways to just have someone to share with. You do not have to be an athlete or even a Christian to become part of our club, as many times misunderstood, but we do express and present you with the challenge and adventure of having Jesus Christ as your Lord. If you would like to give us a try, we meet at 7:30 pm in Room 205, upstairs in the Student Center, on Tuesday nights. If you have any questions about FCA, contact Ann Sanders (President), Kent Lamb (Vice President), Julie Smith (Secretary), Lesley Davis (Treasurer) or any other FCA member.

Alcoholics Anonymous Meetings Scheduled

By Vicki Gardner
Alcohol and Drug Prevention

If you don't think that you have a problem with drinking, that's your business. However, if you think that you might, then that's our business.

Every Wednesday night at 6:00 pm in Room 205 of the Student Center, there is a closed discussion meeting of Alcoholics Anonymous. The only requirement is that you have a sincere desire to stop drinking.

Please make every effort to attend.

Did You Know?

Everyone of us is directly or indirectly affected by alcohol related problems.

70% of all child sexual abuse,

50% of all rapes,
85% of all deaths by fire,
25% of all suicides,
—involve alcohol use!

The combined problems associated with alcohol use cost the economy $116.7 billion annually!

If you would like more information or would like to discuss personal concerns regarding alcohol and drug issues, please contact Vicki Gardner at ext. 2340 in Student Services.

FCA Schedule Of Events

February 25 - FCA is sponsoring a car wash from 8 am til 6 pm at "The Carwash" - 2306 South Kings Hwy.

February 28 - FCA is holding a Basketball-a-thon raising money to support "FCA Athlete Appreciation Dinner" being held March 13.

March 7 - FCA regular meeting (Bible Study) and officer elections at 7:30 pm, Room 205 Student Center.

Please note that the FCA Collegiate Retreat for February was cancelled due to a measles epidemic.

Phone Help For Drug Problems

By Vicki Gardner

Many people are interested in specific information regarding their own, or a loved one's, drug or alcohol use. Fortunately, there are several avenues available to obtain this information. Right here on campus in Room 206 of the Student Center, there is an information center complete with a variety of printed material free for the taking. For more information, just call Ext. 2340.

Locally, the Waccamaw Center for Mental Health (248-7213 or 448-1431) and the Horry County Alcohol and Drug Commission (248-6291 or 448-1474) would be pleased to answer any questions that you may have.

For those of you who may prefer a more anonymous route, here are three numbers to call:

1-800-COCAINE - staffed 24 hours a day, 7 days a week

1-800-942-DIAL - Monday thru Friday, 8:30am to 5:00 pm - answering machine available for returning calls

1-800-241-7946 - Monday thru Friday, 8:30am to 5:00pm - taped messages available all other hours

Dewey, Derek, and Dukakis

By John Elder
Editor-In-Chief

Americans love to take polls. Whether it's for presidential elections, television shows, or just another filler in USA Today, polls are everywhere. How accurate are polls? Well, Harry Truman didn't believe in polls, Thomas Dewey learned not to, and Mike Dukakis...OK, bad example.

An interesting poll was taken before the current Big South Men's Basketball season. Campbell was selected as the runaway choice to capture the conference championship, while Coastal, well, no sense in even playing...we were tapped for sixth place.

Coastal was considered to be no more than an also-ran - decimated by the loss of William Calvin, Michael Anderson, Greg Moody, and Dave Mooney to graduation. How could a team even compete with only two returning seniors and no juniors, saddled by the inexperience of six freshmen?

Without a doubt, this has been Russ Bergman's most outstanding job as coach. Derek Wilson and Richard Scantlebury have provided both the firepower and the court leadership to not only keep Coastal competitive, but sitting in first place. Duwayne Cheatam, Robert Dowdell, and Brian "Three Point" Penny have emerged as legitimate top performers. Freshmen Craig Hodges, J. J. Foster, and Will Ratliff have proven that Coastal has plenty to look forward to in the future. In the words of George Allen, "the future is now."

Though cliché, this has truly been a team effort. Bergman has gotten everyone into the act, taking advantage of blowouts to give role players valuable playing minutes. The season schedule was a tough one, opting for the experience gained by playing "big school" programs instead of playing patsies to inflate the won-loss record. The results speak for themselves.

Saturday night is the final home game of the season prior to the Big South Tournament in Rock Hill. It will be the final game for Derek and Scants in the friendly confines of the Coop. It may also be the game in which we clinch undisputed ownership of the regular season crown. Let's all try to make it out for this one to thank the team for a great season and the seniors for a great four years.

Oh, and sorry about the Mike Dukakis crack. After all, throughout the campaign he said that if George Bush were elected, there would be unemployment, deficits, tax increases, and drug abuse. Well, Mike lost the job he was after, Massachusetts has a $600 million deficit, Massachusetts is raising taxes once again, and his wife is in an alcohol abuse treatment center. Guess he knew what he was talking about after all.

Think International

By Geoff Parsons
International Programs

"Think International" is the message this fall from the Office of International Programs. The personal and professional rewards of travel to other countries gained by Coastal graduates is why we want to spread the word.

Although many of our American students realize that students from other countries come to Coastal Carolina to study, very few think of study abroad as an option for themselves. It may be that they feel they don't have the time, or the money or they fail to see the benefit of foreign travel when relating it to their major. Experience has always been a good teacher, and foreign travel is no exception.

We have all heard that the world is becoming a smaller place as a result of technological advances, particularly in the area of telecommunications. This increased global intimacy will require an increased understanding of other countries and their governments and cultures. Reading and television can give you a sense of places, but travel gives you a sense of people.

Studying in another country is a great way to acquire an appreciation for other people, their cultural differences and similarities. Here at Coastal, if you want to spend a month or a semester abroad, we can find the plan for you. If you would like to study in another country for a year, the International Student Exchange Program has over ninety participating colleges and universities in Africa, Asia, Australia, Great Britain, Western Europe, Canada and Central and South America. During the summer, there are any number of two, four, six, eight and twelve week courses offered all over the world. We are constantly receiving catalogs and brochures describing a variety of programs in areas such as Marine Science, Business, Economics and Art, just to mention a few.

Some travel programs are expensive, many are not. Costs vary based on length of stay and the country visited. Through Coastal, you can obtain an International Student I.D. which will qualify you for discounts on travel fare, car rentals, theatre tickets and many other items all over the world potentially saving you hundreds of dollars.

Anyone interested in foreign travel is encouraged to visit me, Geoff Parsons, in the Office of International Programs' trailer located behind the Singleton Building, Monday through Friday from 1:00 pm - 3:00 pm.

Surf Therapy

By T. H. George
Staff Writer

Everyone has a different reason for surfing. To some, it is a method of staying physically fit. To others, it is a way of proving they can excel at something positive. To me, it is the most mentally refreshing and exciting activity in which I've participated.

I love the way the cold ocean water feels as I walk away from the world and into the deep blue sea. The smell of the ocean water is exhilarating. As I go farther out into the ocean, it feels as though with each wave I paddle over more, and more of my troubles are washed away; my mind is cleansed of all worldly concerns until all I can think about is paddling out to where the waves are forming. As I paddle over the waves on my way out, I envy those who are already surfing. Once I get out there, I enjoy talking to the other surfers. It is nice to have people around who want nothing more from me than to know what kind board I am riding—if only everything in my life could be so simple. I enjoy telling people about my board; it is a seven foot Kelly Richards with a painting of Batman on the bottom and a Bat-symbol on the light blue top deck. Batman is very violent and aggressive, and surfing on the Bat board is like putting all of my anger underneath me. I truly enjoy talking to the other surfers, but, even more, I enjoy a good wave coming in.

As the wave closes in on me, all my strength goes to my arms, which are furiously paddling to catch the wave. It seems like I am trying to dig a hole in the ocean, but with each handful of water I throw back behind me, more rushes into its place causing me to dig even harder. When I catch the wave, I hop up on the Bat board, and instantly I am on top of the world. Being on top of the world is an incredible feeling, but it could never compare to dropping down the face of the wave. As I lean my weight forward, I feel like I am falling. The falling sensation comes to a rather abrupt halt as I get down to the bottom of the wave. I find myself flying straight forward with the wave pushing me from behind. I cut to the left looking for a good spot to get back up on the lip of the wave. After dropping down the face, I find that I must do it again. As I skim along, parallel to the wave, I love the sound my board makes as it bounces up and down on the water. It makes me think of Alexander the Great, whipping the Nile to make the water subservient to him. I hope that someday the Atlantic will treat me with the respect that he received from the Nile. But, for now when I find that ever elusive trip back up on top of the world, more often than not, I find myself thrown face first into the sea. I usually find the bottom before I find my way to the surface. When the effects of my "wipe out" have left my body, I stand up invigorated. I look to the shore, all stress gone from my body, and think of how wonderful my life really is. I walk onto the sand a new man.

Surfing may not be right for everybody, but to me it is one of the best things in my life. Even in its most violent moods, the Atlantic is my sea of tranquility. After leaving the water, my troubles may not be gone, but I am refreshed enough to handle them wisely.

Another Look At Parking Tickets

By Jackie Bryant

I was sitting in the Student Center one day, minding my own business, when an outraged student entered. This student was upset because he had received a $3.00 parking ticket for improper display of parking sticker. Amidst the stream of expletives, I discerned that the student had the parking sticker displayed in the front window of their vehicle. Adamantly refusing to pay the ticket and not so kindly telling others what he thought of the Campus Police department, the student and others suggested a few reforms for the parking situation at Coastal.

One suggestion was that upon payment of tuition we should be entitled to a reserved parking space. Ours and ours alone. Good idea, except the paper work involved with this would be ridiculous. The Campus Police would need a list of all registered students and a description and tag number of their vehicles. Then to determine if the car in slot 328-B (for example) is the car that is supposed to be there, they'd have to carry this list with them at all times. As if the police dept. doesn't have enough to do!

Another complaint the student had was that this system of bumperstickers ruins the "look" of a new car. Also to put the sticker on a back window is too much, because if you have tinted windows it ruins them. What better way is there? Your car can't look perfect forever. I myself have a new car and I realize it is a necessary part of life to "mark it up" in some way. If I were in the military I would be required to put a sticker on my car. Many businesses require a parking sticker of their employees to insure their parking spaces.

The cry for more parking has been a loud one since Coastal has begun growing. Yes, we need more parking - tell the administration, they're the ones who plan for things like this, not the police. Until the administration can come up with more parking or a better way of managing parking, then we are stuck with the system we have. The system would work a lot smoother if everyone would do their part to follow the guidelines in the traffic and parking regulations we received when we registered our vehicles with the Campus Police.

The police department is enforcing those regulations. There is nothing personal about it when you receive a ticket. You know when you are in violation of parking policies and are taking the risk of getting a ticket. It's no use yelling at the officers because they are just doing their job. They are not out to get you. Just consider the mess (more than what we already have) if everyone parked where they wanted. And if approximately 2,000 people can put a sticker on their car, new or not, then I believe that anyone can. It is a part of life. Might as well start preparing for it now folks, isn't that what college is supposed to do? And if you can't abide by the regulations, then take the bus!

Alpha Kappa Sorority Sponsors Program Honoring Black History Month

The members of Alpha Kappa Sorority, Inc. of Coastal will sponsor a program in honor of Black History Month on Thursday, February 23 at 7:30 p.m. at Cherry Hill Missionary Baptist Church in Conway. The public is invited to attend.

South Carolina Senator Frank Gilbert, from Senate District 30, will be the guest speaker. Music will be provided by the Coastal Carolina Gospel Choir and the Cheerleaders of Cherry Hill Missionary Baptist Church.

FCA Shares Fellowship During Youth Service Day

By Kent Lamb

Department of Youth Services (DYS) Day is a time of sharing love with young people in trouble. Sponsored by the Fellowship of Christian Athletes of South Carolina, many College Huddles throughout the state take part as Huddle Leaders.

The day is filled with games and bible studies. On many occasions you have the opportunity to get close to some of the guys and girls and to share with them what Christ has to offer them, but most of all, just to share love. Last semester, two DYS Days were held; one in November, and again in December. Michelle Penland, Chris West, Maurice White and Kent Lamb took part from Coastal's FCA Huddle.

The kids we were working with were from 12 to 17 years of age, and all were first time offenders. They are there to be evaluated while awaiting a judge to decide whether or not they return to their families, or go further in correctional institutions. The fellowship and love shared cannot be expressed in words. It is always good to see 70 or 80 out of approximately 150 kids to accept Jesus Christ and make a turn around in their lives. Just to know that someone loves them means so much to them.

I remember one 12 year old who climbed on me all day, just wanting attention. There are so many people just like that, but the real blessing out of the trip is when you can call their homes later and find out that they are doing well.

When I called a house to follow up with my new friend, his grandmother just started thanking me on the telephone. I gave all of the credit to God, because His spirit makes things happen. The experience and feelings that you receive are all made possible by God when you give up a small amount of your time for Him.

FCA on campus just wants to share love with each student, and express the challenge and adventures of having Jesus Christ as your personal Savior.

Coastal Student Wins First Place Honors In Regional Advertising Competition

(right) Joe Florence

Joe Florence of Myrtle Beach, a senior marketing major at Coastal was named first place winner in his region in a student newspaper advertising competition sponsored by the American Academy of Advertising and International Newspaper and Marketing Executives (AAA/INAME). This year's competition theme was prevention of teenage pregnancy.

According to Ed Cerny, business administration professor and coordinator of the MBA program at Coastal, marketing students in his class wrote and designed three ads and public service announcements based on the theme. Three advertising professionals from the community selected the work of six students to be submitted for the regional competition.

In its third year, the contest includes eleven regions comprised of colleges and universities across the country. As a regional winner in the competition, Florence's entries will go on to the upcoming national competition in San Francisco.

Florence's ads will also be showcased in upcoming AAA/INAME conventions and in a publication produced by the INAME Foundation that will be distributed to members of the American Academy of Advertising.

F.C.A. Sponsors Car Wash

Myrtle Beach Rugby Club Starts Spring Season

By Brian McGuire
Staff Writer

The Myrtle Beach Rugby Club is currently preparing for the spring season which begins this month. Many people are not aware of the existence of this local club, and most people aren't familiar with the nature of the sport.

One might consider rugby to be similar to soccer. Besides the fact that the uniforms appear somewhat alike, rugby, as in soccer, allows the players to kick the ball and run around on the field. However, as in football, a rugger can pick up the ball and run with it. And run he should, because he is now susceptible to being tackled by his opponents.

Too often, people have passed up the opportunity to play or watch this game. Although the club is based in Myrtle Beach, there are several Coastal students who are ruggers. These players saw their interest shift from football to rugby as soon as they watched their first game. Any rugger will admit that there are complexities to the game - strength, intimidation, cleverness and swiftness.

Home games will be played on Saturdays at the Pepper Geddings Recreation Center. The first match will be Saturday, February 25, at 2:00 pm. The opponent will be Cape fear of Wilmington. For any students interested in playing, practices are now being held Tuesday and Thursday evenings at the Pepper Geddings Recreation Center across from Memorial Stadium. Experience a truly unique sport.

Dr. Stallworth To Speak March 13th

Dr. James Stallworth, from the USC Medical School in Columbia, will be on campus March 13, from 11:30 am to 1:00 pm. He will meet with students who are interested in attending medical school, answering any questions that they may have. The program will take place in Room 123 of the Science Building. No registration is necessary; all students are invited on a walk-in basis.

Instead of saving a little time, he killed a little boy.

He wasn't paying attention to the road as he went speeding through the neighborhood on the way home.

It really doesn't matter why he chose to ignore the speed limit, because now a child is dead.

He had developed an attitude problem. Like many other drivers in South Carolina he thought he owned the road.

Every year thousands of people are killed, crippled, and disfigured on South Carolina's roads. The major causes are SPEEDING, DRIVING UNDER THE INFLUENCE, FAILURE TO WEAR SAFETY BELTS, FAILURE TO YIELD

RIGHT-OF-WAY, AND FAILURE TO OBEY WARNING SIGNS.

Don't make the same mistake. You can bet your life he wishes he hadn't. Because instead of saving a few minutes, he cost a child's life.

Chants Defeat Augusta

By Ira Hertzoff
Sports Editor

Brian Penny had 29 points and Derek Wilson had 18 as Coastal Carolina claimed at least a tie of the regular season Big South Basketball crown Saturday night, as they defeated Augusta College 58-57, in Jaguar-Gym.

Brian Penny got the Chants going early by hitting two three pointers in the first minute, giving Coastal a quick 6-0 lead. However, in that same span, center DuWayne Cheatam picked up two fouls and went to the bench, and with 6'10 Craig Hodges out with a foot injury, that left coach Russ Bergman in a dilemma, as he put in Will Ratliff, and the Chants had to play without a true center.

The Chants built their first half lead up to 12 points with 7:51 to go, on a Penny three pointer, but were unable to pull away from the pesky Jaguars, and were only up 32-27 at the break.

Coastal came out in the second half and quickly got the lead back to 10 on another Penny three pointer, at 18:23, but the Jags started to come back on the shoulders of John Walker and Keenan Mann, who combined for 14 of the teams' next 17 points, and when Mann hit a jumper at the 8:43, Augusta had a 48-47 lead. With the fans going insane, Coastal quickly took the lead back on two Derek Wilson freethrows and then what else but two more Penny three pointers.

With 1:12 on the clock, Augusta's Tim Daniels hit one of two free throws to pull the Jags to one at 58-57, and Coastal then proceeded to miss the front end of two one and one opportunities, with the ball and 36 seconds to play and trailing by one, the Jags never got off a shot due to Coastal's pressure defense, and Coastal won another conference road game.

The win puts Coastal at 8-2 in the conference and 13-12 overall, and if Coastal wins either of their last two conference games or second place Campbell loses one, Coastal will have their second straight Big South regular season title. The final home game for Coastal will be on Saturday night against Campbell at 7:30.

Clemson Takes Coastal 6-5

By Ira Hertzoff

"We were lucky because we did not deserve to win," were the words uttered by Clemson baseball coach Bill Wilhelm, as his 14th ranked Tigers scored four unearned runs in the eighth inning, to beat Coastal 6-5 at Coastal Carolina Stadium.

Coastal, which lost the day before 22-5, quickly got on the scoreboard in the first. Mark Romer walked and Robbie Jordan singled and both men trotted home when Kip Kingsmore blasted his second homer of the year over the right field fence, and Coastal was up 3-0.

In the second inning, first baseman Jeff Sefcik found a Mike Milchin offering to his liking and deposited the ball over the left field fence putting Coastal up 4-0. While the Chants had the sticks in motion, pitcher Randy Stokes kept the Tiger bats at bay, as he didn't allow a hit through the first four innings; however, Clemson did score a run in the third inning on two Coastal errors.

In the fifth inning Clemson's Brian Kowitz led off with a double and later scored on a sacrifice fly, cutting Coastal's lead to 4-2. Mark Howle led off the Coastal fifth with a homer to center putting Coastal up again by three.

Clemson then took control of the game in their half of the eighth; Stokes departed after giving up a single, but Matt Logue came on and struck out the first two batters he faced, and then got Kowitz to hit a squibber back toward the mound. Logue's throw to Sefcik at first was off the mark opening the flood gates for the Tigers. Back to back hits by Henry Threadgill and Milchin knocked in four runs, and Clemson had their win.

The loss drops Coastal to 2-3, as they entertain Atlantic Christian in a weekend series starting at 2:00.
